Dear Dan,

My abject apologies for being so very neglectful of your letter of last March. I wanted to give this personal thought and to explore the situation with several friends who are well connected around the Government. I made the mistake of taking your letter home with me to give it consideration in a less hectic atmosphere. I must admit that it got buried in my den in a stack of unclassified papers that I keep there for moments when there's a break in the official ~~un~~classified workload. It just got lost and neglected; I'm most apologetic.

Having unearthed your papers and talked to my friends, I think the best opportunities for you would be in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, or possibly in Housing and Urban Development. Under the former there is a new Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), as well as a Neighborhood Health Facilities Program and the large Social Security Administration. In HUD there would be a lot of commonality with your background also. Finally, there is even the Foreign Buildings Operations program of the Department of State though State is more of a closed corporation than these other agencies.

I have not, in large part because I don't know what you may have decided in the long time it's taken me to get around to this, explored specific openings that may be available in any of these departments. I'm also not close enough to their activities to be aware of specific vacancies. I would be happy to forward your resume directly to the Secretaries of those departments. Perhaps even better would be to attempt to get you an appointment with someone in their organization if that interested you. It's always so easy in this large governmental apparatus simply to shuffle a piece of paper by.

I am sorry that this isn't more specific; there are indeed a lot of exciting positions in the Government. It is difficult to know which are truly exciting and which are routine and to keep abreast of when the good ones are opening up. It has been my experience, however, that a little seed planting by coming down and talking to people will often uncover opportunities that would otherwise go unnoticed.

I again apologize for being so inefficient and tardy. I do wish you well in finding just what you'd like to do next.

All the best.

Yours,

Dear Senator Proxmire,

On 8 April 1977 I visited with you in your office and promised you an unclassified study on the Soviet Civil Defense effort. There were substantial changes to our base of intelligence information on this subject which delayed this study. In addition, there were the usual bureaucratic problems, but it is finally on the street. I am enclosing a copy to be sure that you have one personally.

With best regards.

Yours sincerely,
